A MESSAGE FROM RABBI DANA EVAN KAPLAN

Please check out Rabbi Kaplan's blog for photos, interesting notes and more at danakaplan.com.

Your Voice Matters: Shaping Our Friday Night Worship Together

One of the great strengths of our Temple community is that we come together not only to pray, but to build something sacred collectively. Jewish worship has never been static. From the Temple in Jerusalem, to the traditional synagogue, to the Classical Reform temple, to the Mishkan T'fila siddur we hold today, our tradition has always evolved in conversation with the spiritual needs of the people who gather.

As your rabbi, I want to invite you into that conversation more intentionally.

Over the coming days, I would like to hear directly from you about what you hope to receive from our Friday night services as well as our Saturday morning monthly services — and what you most need spiritually and religiously at this stage of your life. I am asking not as a pollster or consultant, but as a partner in sacred work.

Different people come to services carrying very different hopes. Some are looking for inspiration. Others are seeking comfort, healing, or grounding after a difficult week. Some want to feel challenged intellectually; others want to feel held emotionally. Some are drawn to music; others to words, silence, or ritual structure. None of these needs are more “correct” than others—they are simply human and Jewish.

I would love to hear from you about questions such as:

- What spiritual or religious needs bring you to Friday night services right now?
- What moments in our services feel most meaningful or authentic to you?
- What parts help you feel connected—to God, to community, to yourself?
- Are there elements that feel less engaging, confusing, or distant?

You may also wish to reflect on the practical details of our worship:

- Would you like more singing or less singing?
- More Hebrew, less Hebrew, or more explanation of what we are saying?
- Are there particular prayers that resonate with you — or others you struggle with?
- How do you feel about moments of silence or meditation during the service?
- Do you prefer a service that feels more structured, or more flexible and reflective?

I am especially interested in what is working for you right now, as well as what may not be. If something in our current approach helps you feel spiritually nourished, I want to know that. If something consistently misses the mark for you, I want to hear that as well — respectfully and honestly.

You are also welcome to suggest changes or ideas. Perhaps there is a ritual you experienced elsewhere that moved you deeply. Perhaps there is a theme, teaching style, or musical approach you would like to see more often. Perhaps you are not sure what you want—but you know how you want to feel when you leave services. That, too, is valuable feedback.

Please know that not every suggestion can or will be implemented, and that our services must balance a wide range of needs across backgrounds. But listening matters. And understanding how our worship is experienced by the people who show up is an essential part of nurturing a living, responsive Jewish community. You can email me directly at rabbidanakaplan@gmail.com. If you prefer, you may write at length or briefly, thoughtfully or intuitively.

My hope is that this process will help us continue to shape Friday night services that are spiritually meaningful, welcoming, and honest—services that meet us where we are, while gently lifting us toward something higher.

Thank you for being part of this sacred conversation. I look forward to hearing from you.

Rabbi Dana Evan Kaplan

NOTES FROM CANTOR BARUCH KORITAN

The First Shabbat Service of the secular New Year is January 2, 2026. That in itself is exciting, but even more festive when it is remembered that Shabbat is truly the most important holiday of the year. First the Cantor introduces a niggun to entice the congregation to sing along, and the per-service starts gaining momentum,

The Rabbi's greeting officially welcomes everyone. We rise and join in the singing of Shalom Aleichem. The official start of the service is next....You guessed correctly!

The motif of the evening is truly set when a woman or a group of women blesses the birkat hanerot (Sabbath lights) and yom tov (every festival, if it falls on a holiday). This simple but defining act may be performed by a man... if a woman is unavailable! Ushering in the light (synonymous with "joy" in the Bible) is one of only three mitzvot that Jewish women of Orthodoxy are expected to fulfill. The other two are through ritual bath (mikvah) and the separation of the challah into two portions, of which the smaller is not kneaded but later is burned.

We can imagine our early Matriarchs initiating candlelight, performing this beautiful opening of Shabbat at home. However, this symbolic as well as physical act in shul was denied to women until almost a millennium ago. Until then, most rabbis, all of whom were male), considered the lighting of the Shabbat lamp as a woman's task simply because the men were in synagogue. By default, the ladies gained an honored tradition as their own.

Around the 11th century, Northern European Jewish women achieved more freedom and status in religious matters. They chose to fulfill the mitzvot previously denied to them, also gaining the right to recite the candle blessing. This ritual is documented, perhaps for the first time, by Rashi's granddaughter, Hannah, who described her mother performing it. In the Mishnah, only one light is mentioned. The custom evolved, especially among the wealthy, to two or even more candles; one for each child or family member: After the candles are lit, she closes her eyes and encircles the lights three times with her outstretched hands. This focuses attention and brings the true light of Shabbat to oneself.

At Temple Beth Shalom, after the recitation of the blessing and its English translation, the cantor leads the congregation in the melodic version composed by Abraham Wolf Binder (1895-1966). A native New Yorker, Binder spent his life writing music to enrich prayer. The soothing minor tones of his setting enhance the mood already set by the woman's recitation.

May every woman come to know the joy shared by those who fulfill this spiritual act of honor. May we sing the praises and be enriched by the presence of these women who retain that afterglow created by such a meaningful act of devotion and love. On Shabbat, as we share each other's gifts, our individual prayers ignite one another in beautiful praise to God. May the year 2026 bring light to all seekers of love and peace.

Jon Green Board Treasurer

Marlene and I moved to Sun City from the Cleveland area in late 2021, a couple of years after I retired from the CPA firm I had merged my firm with in 2015.

We came to Arizona to be close to long-time friends, David and Sheila Lovinger, with whom we had shared many New Years holidays, and to plant new roots in the Jewish community here. We joined Temple Beth Shalom of the West Valley, and were immediately welcomed.

In the Cleveland area, I was most recently the treasurer of Temple Emanu El, when we decided to purchase land and build a new facility south and east of our original Temple, to follow the migration of young Jewish families to that area, as our temple's demographics were changing.

In Cleveland, I also served as an officer and treasurer of the Foundation for Geauga Parks, which raises funds to support Geauga County, Ohio parks. I am still a member of its Finance and Budget Committee.

I am currently the treasurer and a member of our Temple Beth Shalom's Board of Directors and a member of the Brotherhood and the Outreach Committee. I also help manage our Temple's Arizona and Homeland Security grants. My goal is to help our congregation succeed in our mission of well-representing the Jewish population here in the West Valley.

Marlene is co-chair of the Social Action Committee. We have three daughters. Two families live in the D.C. area, and our youngest daughter's family lives in Dallas.

If you are interested in sharing your experience to help TBS grow, please email me at jmgreencpa@gmail.com.

TBS MEMBER SPOTLIGHT: YOLANDA SCHATZ

By Mariane Anderson

Way back in 1993, when we were all young and foolish, Earl Schatz and his wife, Yolanda, left the snow and humidity of Chicago behind and emigrated to warm, wonderful Arizona. Within a couple of years, after visiting various Valley synagogues, they settled on Temple Beth Shalom. They found the congregation to be warm and friendly and so became long-standing members.

Yolanda, now a widow, was born in Gary, Indiana, and moved to Chicago after she was married to Earl. Her favorite color is blue and her favorite food is pasta (yumm). She was married in 1957 and they had two daughters, Gayle and Beth. Beth is married to Mike (the son Yolanda never had) and they have a son, Lance, and two daughters, Molly and Kelly. Gayle has passed away, but had two daughters just like her mom, Kelly and Lindsey. Lindsey is married to Willie, but there are no great-grand-children so far.

Earl and Yolanda had joined the Temple to make friends; and they did. Things were different in the nineties than they are now, and the couple joined a Chavurah where they made fast friends; the kind you have for a lifetime. Yolanda muses that they are all gone now, but the flip side is that she has lived a long and active life, having just turned 91.

The members of the Chavurah did everything together and were like an Arizona family for all the members that had come from other places. They played cards and Mah Jongg, went to plays at the Broadway Theater and attended movies with the Cinema Society.

In the beginning, there were no Temple Oneg Shabbats after services, so the group all went over to McDonald's and schmoozed over ice cream together at connected tables instead of over baked goods in the Social Hall. (No one had to worry about the time the security guard would go home or locking up the building after they were done.) It was a friendly and enjoyable way to end the evening.

Yolanda and Earl would make Onegs for special occasions and Earl took care of arranging the Bimah flowers each week. Yolanda and Earl did a lot of traveling together, sometimes with friends and sometimes on their own. Yolanda particularly enjoyed a cruise on the Danube, seeing the cities and other sites along the way.

Now, Yolanda lives a quieter life and volunteers in the Temple kitchen as the Hospitality chair of the Sisterhood. It was fun getting to know something about Yolanda and I suspect I will continue the process for some time to come.

Would you like to be Bar/Bat Mitzvahed?

It's never too late to claim a moment that was missed. Our synagogue is launching a new Adult Bar/Bat Mitzvah Program for committed adult learners who did not have the opportunity to become bar or bat mitzvah earlier in life—and who are ready to do so now, with intention and depth. This is not a crash course, but a meaningful journey of study, community, and personal growth.

We are looking to start an Adult Bar/Bat Mitzvah class. We are having an informational meeting and discussion at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 7. Refreshments will be served. No prior knowledge of Hebrew is needed.

Over approximately 18 months, a small group of adults will learn Hebrew, explore Jewish texts and ideas, and prepare to lead part of a Shabbat service. More than a ritual milestone, this program offers the chance to stand fully inside Jewish tradition as an adult—bringing a lifetime of questions, experience, and reflection to a moment of profound affirmation.

If you are interested, please call the Temple office at 623.977.3240 to sign up.

God, Spirituality & Prayer

WHAT IS ALL THIS ABOUT ANYWAY?

Mondays - January 5, 12 & 19 from 10:00 - 11:30 AM

In this three-week course, we will explore these three topics - God, spirituality and prayer - that evoke a wide range of opinions and emotions among many people of all ages in recent years. It is our hope that there will be some answers for everyone. Persons of all religious beliefs are invited to join us for this course.

- Today, large numbers of Jews, Catholics and Protestants avoid speaking about God altogether. God has no relevance for many. Others wonder about God but really don't know what they think about the role of God in their lives.
- Others now search for something more meaningful - often spirituality. Spirituality can be found in many places and there is no end to the number of self-help books available to help the explorer.
- Lastly are those who are looking for a meaningful way to engage with God through prayer, but find it difficult to pray for various reasons. They are seeking ways to make prayer meaningful in their lives.

Fay Henning-Bryant is the Chairperson of the Adult Education Committee at Temple Beth Shalom of the West Valley and a past President of the congregation. She brings many years of lay leadership experience through the Union of Reform Judaism (URJ) combined with an extensive background in human resource development. She has a Master of Arts degree in counseling and psychology from the University of Iowa.

FAIRLY 20TH CENTURY AMERICAN JEWISH WOMEN

THURSDAYS | FEBRUARY 5, 12 AND 19 | 10:00 TO 11:30 AM

Three famous American Jewish women changed the course of Jewish history: Golda Meir, Henrietta Szold and Emma Goldman. These three women had much in common, but also were very different. One was born in the United States and the other two in Russia. One lived her whole life here; another was deported for being an anarchist; and the third made Aliyah to Israel. All of them struggled with their desire to be leaders in a time when women were still expected to stay at home and cook and clean.

Henrietta Szold founded Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, which quickly became one of the most successful of all Zionist groups. In her work with Hadassah, Szold used a combined ethical and pragmatic approach aimed at improving the lives of both Jews and Arabs. After moving to Mandate Palestine, she helped shape education, health, and social services there.

Emma Goldman was a modern radical who took seriously the idea that inner liberation is the first business of social revolution. Her politics, from beginning to end, was based on resistance to that which thwarted the free development of the inner self.

Golda Meir was the first and only woman to serve as prime minister of Israel. Her many accomplishments – beginning as a teenager giving street-corner speeches in the pre-state Jewish community in Palestine – are too extensive to begin to list in this brief space. Prior to becoming Israel's fourth prime minister, she served as the labor secretary of the newly formed Jewish state, and the Israeli foreign minister.

HEAVEN & HELL

MONDAYS • FEBRUARY 2, 9, & 23 • 10-11:30AM

Note that the course will NOT meet on February 16.

More than any other question, people want to know that happens to me after I die? Is there a heaven and hell and how do we get to one or the other? If I want to get a reserved seat on Cloud 9, what do I have to do in this life? If I do make it to heaven, will I be reunited with my family?

Since Judaism does not stress Heaven and Hell nearly as much as some forms of Christianity do, many people are surprised that Judaism does have well-developed concepts of both. There are many different Jewish views of Heaven and hell.

In this three-part series, Rabbi Dana Evan Kaplan will discuss Heaven and Hell in Judaism and how different forms of Judaism look at these concepts. In addition to being the spiritual leader of Temple Beth Shalom of the West Valley, Rabbi Kaplan has authored several books and has developed a reputation for being an excellent teacher.

The Registration deadline is January 29 at noon. To register, pay or buy a coupon book, call the Temple Office at 623-977-3240 (Monday through Thursday from 9:00 AM to 3:00 PM)

BIMAH FLOWER & FOOD BASKET FUNI

Contributions are always appreciated. Make checks payable to TBS Sisterhood and send them to the office.

CONTRIBUTIONS

Many people contribute to the Flower Bouquet & Food Basket Funds "in memory of," but did you know that you can also contribute to these funds "in honor of" to help someone special celebrate a birthday, anniversary or any other kind of Simcha?

This is Sisterhood's major fundraiser. We use it to make donations to local food banks, but the major portion is given to our Temple whenever a need arises, such as a copier, a computer and new kitchen appliances like a refrigerator and dishwasher. We are always there to help.

Please help by contributing.

TREE OF LIFE

Consistent with our belief, our Tree of Life on the Lobby wall next of the office commemorates simchas and life cycle events, such as special birthdays, anniversaries or Bar & Bat Mitzvahs with an engraved leaf. We look forward to members making a contribution to the Temple and honoring their loved ones or commemorating an event by adding a leaf to the tree in their name. Each life is a $200 donation to the synagogue. This is a lovely way to commemorate a special milestone for your family and support Temple Beth Shalom.

Please call Nan Rubin-Lieber at 623.933.1412 or the Temple office at 623.977.3240 to order you special leaf.
